HANCOCK'S CONFESSION

It is a significant fact that in the interview with Gen. Hancock, on Wednesday, by several of the leading Democrats of Brooklyn, the General did not undertake to deny that in 1877 he declared his intention to obey the orders of Mr. Tilden as President of the United States. The interview must have been arranged for the sole purpose of obtaining such a denial. On the contrary, Gen. Hancock distinctly said, "I am of the opinion that General Grant's term as President ended at midnight, March 3d, after that I should have paid no more attention to him officially than I would to a man in the moon." What is that but setting up his own opinion against the authority of the regular constituted officers of the law? It has been claimed—and there has been no inclination to deny it,—that Gen. Hancock is a good soldier. But the first duty of a good soldier is to obey orders.

But now it comes out that Gen. William F. Smith himself confirms the statement that Gen. Hancock declared his intention in 1877 to obey the orders of Mr. Tilden, as President of the United States, should that gentleman take the oath of office. He was sought out on Tuesday by a Tribune reporter, and the statement which we have already given, that he had reported the conversation attributed to him by the Boston Journal correspondent, was shown him, whereon he stated that Hancock had expressed his willingness to receive orders from Tilden, should he set up authority as President.

"Is that correct, General?" the reporter asked, when General Smith handed back the newspaper slip.

"Yes, I suppose it is correct enough, but this refers to Mr. Atkins, not to me."

But he says that he got the statement from you?

"Well, I did mention something of the sort, I believe."

"As a recommendation of General Hancock?"

"No, not in that way at all. We were simply talking among ourselves about what had happened in the past—about the fraud, and so on—and I mentioned this as a fact in connection with the fraud. I have nothing further to say about it."

"Does Mr. Atkins state substantially what you said?"

"Oh, yes, that is correct."

From whom did you obtain the information?

"That I cannot tell you."

"But you made the statement publicly?"

"I might have alluded to it publicly, but I don't think so. Anyway I had not the slightest idea or wish that it would be published. I made the statement, as I said, when we were talking among ourselves."

"Did you state it as a fact within your own knowledge, or as a fact of which you had been informed?"

"I stated it as a fact, as of course it is. It would scarcely do for me to state something which was not true. That is all I intend to say about it."

It seems, after all, that the Democrats knew their man when they selected him. The reason is now apparent why the party that resolved the war was a failure took as a candidate for President one of the conspicuous Union Generals. For it turns out that this Army officer upon whom the Government was in a great measure dependent for the preservation of peace in 1877, had the Democratic revolt been started, was all the time in sympathy with the men who threatened insurrection, and only waited Mr. Tilden's action to put himself at the head, not of the Government forces, but of the revolutionists. Here is an Army officer ready to go behind the orders of his superiors, the action of the constituted authorities, the official declaration, the acts of the Returning Boards and the returns themselves, and, setting up his individual judgment in the matter, decide the whole question. Not only that, but he was ready to take over his command and use the soldiers under him to carry out the orders of a pretender. This is the story—and the facts have now been confirmed in the above interview—that General Wm. F. Smith and his Tammany associates circulated among delegates at Cincinnati, upon the strength of which Hancock was nominated. This it is that explains the stampede of the Confederate Democracy to him. It is knowledge of these facts that so arouses the enthusiasm of Southern Democrats and leads General Preston, of Kentucky to talk about killing whoever shall oppose Hancock's inauguration, and to pledge his life and fortune that no one shall dare to take the Presidency from his grasp.

General Hancock is the Democratic nominee, not because of his soldierly qualities or his statesmanship, but because the Democratic delegates at Cincinnati believed General Smith's story about him, and believed that a man who was so willing to resort to revolutionary proceedings in behalf of another would not shrink from doing it on his own account if the opportunity were given him. And the same considerations that induced the Democracy to nominate him should lead him now to resign his commission in the army.

Last evening, about quarter past nine, a large and brilliant meteor shot across the heavens, tracing a course from south-west to north east. Some who were favored with the sight, were in error, we think, in regarding it as a celestial demonstration in recognition of Steph. Jennings' exordium to the sky.

A BRILLIANT ACCESSION.

Gen. A. L. Pearson, of Pittsburgh, who has been an active Republican, made a speech for Hancock, Friday, and is warmly welcomed to the ranks of his old enemies. Heedless of the experience of greater men who have with greater expectations trod the retrograde path before him, Mr. Pearson expects to carry with him the Republican stronghold of Allegheny county.—Exchange.

This is the same General Pearson who won such glory (of the Plaisted sort) in the great Pittsburgh railroad riots of 1877, by his mysterious disappearance for two days when in command of a division of State troops. In referring to the record of those eventful days, we find the following despatch, dated Pittsburgh, July 24, 1877:

Major General Pearson has mysteriously disappeared and has not been seen since Saturday evening. He was loudest in the boast of what he would do with the soldiery under his command. It is now learned that after the first firing by the eastern troops which was attended by so much slaughter, General Pearson returned to the hotel accompanied by Adjutant General Latta and Secretary of State Quay. They remained until yesterday morning when they took a small boat and steamed down the Ohio river out of harm's way.

General Brinton, commanding the East ern militia, speaks rather uncomplimentary of General Pearson. He said Pearson left the round house at 9 o clock Saturday night and has never seen nor heard of him since. General Loude pronounced Pearson a coward and the whole division spoke of him in most contemptuous terms.

Let the "General" grasp hands with "General" Plaisted, and go straight into the Democratic party, they naturally belong there.

THE STATE CAMPAIGN

Hon. Eugene Hale has been invited and will address the Washington County Convention at Dennysville, July 29. He will also address the York County Convention, at Alfred, August 5.

From every portion of the State we have the most cheering intelligence of Republican earnestness and determination to administer such a rebuke to the State stealers that they will never recover from it.

Piscataquis county may be put down for a clean Republican majority of five hundred.

WON'T DESERT

[From the Ellsworth American.]

The old soldiers who followed General Plaisted during the war, will no more follow him into the Democratic party now than they would have followed him into the rebel camp then. The principles they fought for they will vote for. The man who served his country faithfully in that critical period bought his education in the principles of a free Government and national supremacy too dearly to throw them away now and follow an officer, who, blinded by the hope of reward, has proved recreant to the cause he then upheld and has gone over to the enemy.

The bounty jumpers and those who sought the salubrious climate of Canada to avoid the draft, together with the copperheads who cheered over rebel victories and were sad over rebel defeats, will not be genial comrades to the soldiers who stood before rebel guns and risked their lives for the salvation of their country, and yet, this is the main portion of the army that will follow General Plaisted this fall.

"Harmony and union will not only carry the State next September for General Plaisted, but give its electoral vote to Hancock and English."—Bangor Commercial.

The Commercial, in giving an account of "the successful gathering of the Democracy" at Norombega, where the "enthusiasm was warm and the applause spontaneous," omits to report the principal speech of the evening, that of our distinguished fellow citizen Stephen Jennings, Esq. The speeches of Mr. McCrillis and of Mr. Sanborn are reported quite fully, and under appropriate headings, but Jennings, who talked nearly half an hour, is not even given the distinction of a paragraph. Were it not for the report in yesterday's WHIG, Mr. Jennings's speech would have been lost to prosterity. We accept his thanks for our kindness in rescuing it from the shades of oblivion.

Mr. C. C. Coffin (the well known war correspondent "Carleton") who is writing Gen. Garfield's life, was at one time with his command, and has since his nomination been welcomed to his home in Ohio, so that the public will look for a full and authentic as well as a brilliant volume at his hands.

On government bonds which have been "called," the interest ceases. Yet in some cases persons who retain such bonds attempt to collect the interest by sending the coupons to parties in payment of small debts. The remedy in such cases, where the coupons cannot be returned to the party sending them, is to send the coupons to the Treasury Department at Washington where they will be held until the bonds from which they have been detached are presented for payment, when the amount of the coupons will be deducted from the amount of the bonds, and sent to the party who transmitted them to the government. Thus persons who hold called bonds, and think they are still getting the interest by disposing of the coupons will find in the end that their amount will be deducted from the amount of their bonds when presented for payment, and the parties to whom the coupons were given in payment of debts will get their own again.

The New York Times reiterates the charge against Hancock of promising to support Tilden and obey his orders after March 4, 1876, on the ground that he was legally elected President, and produces a new witness in the person of a nameless army officer of "great repute," however, and at present in Washington. This officer says that, in the event of the possible coalition of the commander of the department of the East with Tilden, it was feared a very serious conflict might result, and so some prominent men in Washington became anxious to ascertain Hancock's position. Gen. Sherman accordingly visited New York and formally addressed a letter to Hancock, requesting an answer in writing. This Gen. Sherman soon received. Hancock in this letter said in substance that he believed Tilden legally elected, and that, if the House of Representatives should by resolutions declare that he had been legally elected President, and if Mr. Tilden should take the oath of office March 4, at any place whatever, he would thereafter look to him for orders and not elsewhere.—Boston Herald.

If Gen. Plaisted has any desire to be elected Governor of Maine he should borrow a muzzle of some dog owner and put it on Solon Chase.—Boston Post.

The above extract exhibits the tender regard of the Democratic press for the Greenbackers. This treatment is a little cool, as Plaisted was nominated by the Greenbackers; and now Solon Chase, the Greenback leader, must be muzzled. The Democrats seem to be the dictators.

Fearing a third failure, the Democrats have postponed for the present their flag raising, announced to come off Saturday evening.

THE IRISH REPUBLICANS.

[From the Boston Journal.]

The Irish American Republican movement is already attaining proportions sufficient to occasion some uneasiness among the Democrats, and the chances are that it will develop very considerably between this and the date of the election. The convention which has been called to meet at Indianapolis will be an interesting gathering, and judging from the signatures appended to the call, it will include a very good representation of Irish Republicans. The call for the convention, with the accompanying address, set forth in admirable language the reasons why Irish Americans should support the Republican rather than the Democratic party. The Democracy has been in the habit of regarding the Irish vote as virtually mortgaged to its own use, and it is felt so sure of its support that it has not greatly concerned itself to recognize or reward its loyalty. The more thoughtful Irish Americans have long seen reasons for dissatisfaction with the course pursued by the Democracy, and the address signed by the Irish Republican Committee of the several States is a very trenchant indictment of the Democratic party for its un-American and unpatriotic course. The attempts of the Democracy to subvert the popular will by fraudulent "counting" in Maine, by tissue ballots in South Carolina, and by rifle clubs in Louisiana, its gross partisanship in unseating lawfully elected members of Congress for its own ends, its expressed willingness to saddle the country with an enormous financial burden by pensioning Confederate soldiers, and its threats of violent procedures at the next election, are among the points emphasized as constituting a sufficient reason why Irish Americans should refuse it their support.

Irishmen have come to this country very largely because they hoped to find here the freedom and the opportunities for prosperity and happiness which were denied them in their own. It is a strange irony that they are found—the large majority of them at all events—in the ranks of that party which has always opposed itself to the cause of human rights, and which has been the chief barrier to the national progress. The Republican party is the party of freedom; its best energies have been given to the deliverance of the oppressed, and its cardinal principle is equal rights for all of whatever race or color, and however lowly. This being so, there is every reason why the call of the Irish Republican Committee should meet with a warm and prompt response from the large class of American citizens to whom it is addressed; and the fact that the Republican party has given the second place on its national ticket to a man of Irish descent will not at all lessen its claims upon the regard of Irish Americans. Moreover, although Democratic organs may make much of the fact that Gen. Hancock has been "always a gentleman," and has had the good luck to be always associated with "people of education and refinement," we question whether that consideration will count for much with Irish Americans. Most of them know what it is to labor with their hands, to live on scanty fare, and to make their way in the world over formidable obstacles. They will not think less of a man who has shared their experiences, and whose career teaches the possibilities open in this country to men of indomitable courage and tireless industry. It will not be a hard thing for American workingmen, Irish or otherwise, to support Gen. Garfield, carpenter and canal boatman—or as the Boston Post sneeringly calls him, the "mule-whacker."

THE GREENBACKERS AT SEBAGO LAKE.

Monday, the Greenbackers, with a sprinkling of Democrats, met at Sebago Lake, for a much advertised and a much talked about flag raising and rally. The Portland Press says the committee of arrangements had not indeed made any very extensive preparation for accommodating the crowd of visitors, but the citizens had, and stands where ice cool lemonade was to be had abounded. About 50 persons were present at the flag raising. Ex-Deacon Gove was called upon to make a speech. He wasn't prepared, he said, but evidently expected to be taken on a Mark Tw inish case, as he immediately pulled from his pocket a bundle containing, it would seem, the few unpremeditated remarks that he proposed to offer. He had been hard at work getting in his hay and it was his belief that after a man had been at work for a week in the field with his hoe he would be apt to feel very little like making a speech. The audience applauded, evidently thinking that a hoe was just the thing to get in hay with, and the ex-deacon, by his display of agricultural knowledge, clearly rose in their estimation. "The people," continued Mr. Gove, "had come to Standish to ask what is to be done with the hay." It naturally occurred to the average farmer that it might be well to get it into the barn, but some one shouted "Give it to Solon's steers!"

Dr. Buzzell, of Deering, followed. He thought the Democrats should vote for Weaver or the Greenbackers for Hancock; he wasn't exactly certain yet.

In the afternoon considerable of a delegation gathered at the Lake. Thomas B. Swan gave his $1,000 speech which he so often repeated last winter.

Ex Deacon Gove, it may be remarked, had tried to be extremely witty in his introductory speeches, for instance when he stated that Plaisted had been the very spinal center of the Republican party, and he made a good point for Solon Chase, when he introduced him "as at once the father and brother of the Greenbackers." Uncle Solon said he liked to come to Standish because he had the blood of the Cape Cod Indians in his veins. The connection between Standish and the Cape Cod Indians isn't exactly plain but it may be that when the Cape Cod Indians wanted to hold a grand pow wow they were in the habit of coming to Standish. Uncle Solon then made a vigorous attack on the Republican party, and the face of Cap'n Chase was, in peaceful contentment, like unto the face of the angel of contentment, but suddenly and without warning, Solon observed that if the Greenbackers of this State disliked the Republicans they also hated the Democrats. "Just remember that, will you?" said Chase, and several voices replied, "we will." And then he proceeded to carry war with vigor into the Democratic camp. Then it was that the face of Cap'n Chase lost the peaceful expression that he had worn. "Them steers are ready for work, and don't you forget it," shouted Mr. Chase, "and you won't have to tie their tails together to prevent their pulling through the yoke either. The Republicans of this State don't fear the Democratic party. (Applause) It's them steers that they are afraid of. What you want to do is to hitch them steers up with the wild ass of the prairie and let 'em do your fall plowing. (Here a disgusted Democrat remarked rather audibly that he didn't want to see a bigger ass than Solon Chase.) The Democrats havn't made a convert from the Republican party for twenty years and won't for twenty years to come. (Applause.)

Two years ago the Democrats were pretty fair Greenbackers, now they have accepted the Republican settlement of the financial question to be the final settlement. We must have the silver dollar; it will cut its bigness through debts, and the Weaver silver bill sleeps in the Democratic Senate chamber the sleep that knows no waking. The Democrats don't dare to stand up and lock horns with the financial ring, they don't dare to lock horns with the money power, it takes them steers to do that. (Applause.) The Democrats think they have a chance at last, but they will find that Hancock will run as General Scott did. (Mr. Chase here indulged in a little historical excursion back to 1852 and predicted that the Democratic party of 1880 would have the same fate as the Whig party of 1852.) The Whigs didn't make their platform in 1852 as much anti-slavery as they did four years before, and they got beat, so the Democrats havn't got as much of the rag baby in their platform as they had four years ago and they will be beat.

The gathering of the Democracy last evening was a great success, and opens the campaign under the most auspicious circumstances.—Commercial of Thursday.

If the Democracy are delighted with that opening of the campaign, we should like to know what will satisfy them for a wind-up. But the Commercial knows that the rank and file openly express disgust at the fizzle.

A very candid Democrat remarked yesterday, in reference to the ratification failure of Wednesday night, "the fact is Hancock did too much fighting on the wrong side for our folks to enthuse much over his nomination." The truth in a nutshell.

When the enumerator proposed to read the law on the subject the citizen refused to allow him to do so, calling it "a d—d black Republican law, any way."

S., from the West Indies, reports that one night while passing along the coast of Florida on a recent voyage, a singular phenomenon appeared just after dark. Two columns of fire were seen, seemingly about a mile away. They were about fifty yards apart and rose to a height of nearly 500 feet, when they arched towards each other but did not meet. They burned with a steady dull red color and did not emit any sparks, but at the arching portions emitted tremulous rays or pencilings of light similar to an aurora borealis. They appeared in sight all night and gradually faded away as daylight came. The weather was beautifully clear and not a cloud was visible during the entire night. On the following day there was a gale of wind accompanied by thunder, but no rain.

DR. TANNER'S FASTING EFFORT. Dr. Tanner of New York, the fasting maniac, is believed to be on the verge of insanity by his doctors. He is very irritable, and has lost 16 pounds since he began. George Francis Train sends him hourly bulletins of encouragement on the backs of postal cards. This is G. F. T.'s latest.

"Citizen Dr. Tanner,—Eighth day! Congratulations! Success or not, you corroborate my sensations, and checkmate Hammond!

Abstention from tobacco and alcohol assists. (Nicotine and liquor are deadly poisons.)

Years ago I announced that fasting and dry air baths cured any disease! (No one believed so I let them die!) Food feeds disease! Had you not fasted, you would have died with fat!

180 degrees heat cures scab in sheep; 190 cholera; 200 hydrophobia! But 160 is best for ordinary complaints! (Soon no house will be complete, sans dry air bath, as in old Rome!) Ride to corner Bowery and Broome and retain an hour at 160.

Your success will close drug shops! Shut medical colleges! Collapse M. D. Dam and bankrupt the casket trade!

Old Calliostro swears your doctors are "Frauds!" (Because not regular "Liars!" Because Eclectic and Homœopaths!) And that you are shamming Fast. Go for him."
G. F. T.

In the Second Congressional Republican Convention of Minnesota, yesterday, Horace B. Strait was nominated on the first ballot.

EXCITEMENT IN AUGUSTA.

A Young Lady Shot in the Face—Escape of the Villain to the Woods—His Capture.

AUGUSTA, July 8. This city was thrown into a state of intense excitement this evening, by the shooting of a young lady named Linn, on the "new road" from Augusta to Hallowell, by a young fellow named Charles Stevens, of Hallowell, a Reform School graduate. Miss Linn overtook Stevens, who begged a ride. He soon ordered her to stop the horse, and upon her refusing, discharged a revolver full in her face, and then took to the woods. Fortunately the revolver was of very small calibre, and the wound will not prove fatal. The Augusta gun club searched the piece of woods in question without success. Stevens was finally caught in Augusta by the detective skill of City Marshal White, assisted by Jackson M. Libbey. The fellow's object was probably to outrage his victim.

Commencement Day at Bowdoin.

BRUNSWICK, July 8. Commencement to-day opened bright and fair with as large an attendance as is usual. The prayer meeting was largely attended in the morning, and, after the board had transacted their business, a procession was formed, headed by Chandler's Band, and marched to the First Parish church where the graduating exercises took place. The church was completely filled and the exercises were listened to with a great deal of interest.

About two o'clock the exercises at the church were completed, and the procession of Alumni formed, headed by Chandler's Band, and marched to Memorial Hall, where a sumptuous dinner was served and thoroughly enjoyed by all. After the usual time had been spent in discussing the tempting viands, post prandial speeches were in order, and good humor was maintained for a long time by pleasing reminiscences of long ago. The first speaker was the venerable and beloved Prof. A. S. Packard, who was revived with tumultuous applause and enthusiasm. He was followed by Hon. S. H. Blake of Bangor, Gen. John M. Brown, class '60; Hon. Thos. B. Reed, M. C. from the First District of Maine; Rev. Dr. Webb, of Boston; Dr. Robie, class of '40; Hon. Charles Soule, President of New York Alumni; Rev. Dr. Brastow, Burlington, Vt.; Rev. Dr. Lee, and others. Republicans of Corinna Wide Awake.

CORINNA, July 7, 1880.

To the Editor of the Whig & Courier:

The Republicans of Corinna are wide awake. Last evening, taking along a quartette and martial music, they held a rousing campaign meeting in the north part of the town. The meeting was under the auspices of the Republican Garfield and Davis Campaign Club. Ringing speeches were made by the President of the club, W. B. Piper, Rev. J. P. Nelson, W. I. Wood, Esq., T. J. Whiting, Esq., J. H. Burgess, Esq., Abner Brooks, and Rev. S. S. Small. The house was crowded and many stood around the doors and windows. Brooks' Martial Band favored us with some fine music, and the singing by the young ladies of Corinna village added greatly to the interest of the occasion.

At the close of the meeting hearty cheers were given for the Republican nominees. The ladies, who are always the foremost in a just cause, had decorated the schoolhouse with evergreens and flowers. Much of the success of the meeting was due to Mr. Isaac Chase.

NABOLI. Dr. Lincoln says that a lady came to his office to have him fill three very sensitive teeth. They were so sensitive for months past that she did not dare to call upon him. He told her the value of Naboli. She had not heard of it before. She believed what he said. In about five minutes he commenced to prepare a cavity and then filled it with tinfoil. He did same in the second cavity and then the third. He told her at first that if he caused any pain to tell him of it. She was about half asleep before he had finished the filling; then she said: "I have not noticed the least pain in the whole work. I shall tell those who have sensitive teeth to come down and have a happy time, while you are at work for them." Not the least pain have others felt in any cavity, since he has used Naboli.

MESSRS. WELLS, RICHARDS, & CO.
Gentlemen—Permit me to say a word in favor of Kidney-Wort. My mother has been afflicted with Kidney Disease for a number of years. Last spring she was so bad as to necessitate her taking Spirits Nitre at least three times a day—had a most alarming pain in her side, also much numbness. After taking one box of Kidney-Wort the pain and numbness disappeared. Her appetite improved at once, and she has not taken a drop of Spirits Nitre since. I advise all who need such a medicine to give it a trial.

NOW I AM THE LEADER OF THE DEMOCRASEE.

When I was a lad, I went to school,
Where Uncle Sam sends many a fool,
I polished up my buttons, and swept my room,
For which I was rewarded by a Democratic boom
I polished up my buttons so carefullee,
That now I am the leader of the Democrasee

In right-about face I made such a mark,
That they gave me the post of an Adjutant's clerk,
I served the Ad. with a smile so bland,
And I copied all the orders in a big round hand.
In right about face I was so free,
That they made me the leader of the Democrasee

As a white cadet, I made such a name,
That a pet of the South I soon became
I wore white gloves and a bran new suit,
At the bottom of my class at the Institute,
So they dropped all their issues, and nominated me,
And now I am the leader of the Democrasee

My political ignorance became so great,
That they took me up as a candidate
So why shouldn't I obey the party's "call,"
Since I shall never have to think for myself at all,
I know so little that they rewarded me,
By making me the leader of the Democrasee

Of civil life I know no more
Than Tilden knows of military lore,
So they abandoned him and his great "reform,"
And fled to me—"any port in a storm!"
They abandoned all their leaders, and begged of me
To come and be the leader of Democrasee

In the Union war I fought so well
That my name is greeted with "the rebel yell"
Of a man on horseback they had such a fear
That they nominated me—which is rather queer
I was a right-about face to nominate me,
And now I am the leader of the Democrasee

Now, Americans all whoever you may be,
I'll give you a bit of a strategee
Never go to any but a military school,
And be careful to be guided by this Democratic rule—
Keep away from the polls, and let politics be,
And you all may be leaders of the Democrasee

To the Honorable Judge of Probate for the County of Penobscot:

The undersigned, Guardian of John A Hall an insane person, of Bangor, in said County, respectfully represents that said ward is seized and possessed of the following described real estate, viz
